Department of Health and Human Services/Centers for Disease Control and Prevention
Reducing the Impact of Arthritis and Other Rheumatic Conditions Program Announcement 01097

- Program: The purpose of the program is to further implement the National Arthritis Action Plan: A Public Health Strategy at the state level by building, developing, enhancing, implementing, and evaluating arthritis control and prevention programs. This arthritis program emphasizes State-based leadership, coordination, and establishment or enhancement of State Health Department capacity to lead efforts to reduce the burden of arthritis within the State. Programmatic efforts should focus on persons affected by arthritis, i.e., persons already experiencing the symptoms of arthritis, their families, and others treating or providing services for persons with arthritis. By targeting persons affected by arthritis, prevention strategies are secondary and tertiary, focusing on prevention of disability and improving quality of life. Primary prevention activities, while worthy, will not be supported in this cooperative agreement.

- Level 1--Establishment Program objective: is to assist States to establish the basic public health foundation to lead the development and the coordination of a state arthritis program among State Health Departments and other agencies. This includes the formulation of linkages and partnerships dedicated to the development and implementation of a State Plan for Arthritis and the implementation of one or more intervention activities in year two.
- Level 2--Enhanced Establishment Program: Objective is to build on existing capacity and resources for States currently funded by CDC at level 1. States will be expected to have a current State Plan for Arthritis. Key activities will be to expand and maintain partnerships as appropriate, improve surveillance activities, implement one or more interventions, and coordinate arthritis activities within the State.

Funds: Total funds available: $2.4 million.

Number of grant awards: 18-24.

Average grant award: $100,000.

Range of grant awards: $90,000-$120,000.

IMMIGRANTS & REFUGEES

Department of Health and Human Services/Administration for Children and Families ORR Standing Announcement for Services to Recently Arrived Refugees Program Announcement No. CFDA 93.576

Program: ➤ Category 1: Preferred Communities for Newly Arriving Refugees

The objective of Category 1, Preferred Communities, is to support resettlement of newly arriving refugees with the best opportunities for their assimilation into new communities. Preferred community sites are those localities where refugees have excellent opportunities to achieve early employment and sustained economic independence without public assistance. Preferred communities should have a history of low welfare utilization by refugees. In addition, refugees should have the potential for earned income at a favorable level relative to the cost of living and to public assistance benefits in such communities. Characteristics of these communities should include: (1) a moderate cost of living; (2) good employment opportunities in a strong, entry-level labor market; (3) appropriate housing and transportation accessible for employment; (4) low secondary out-migration rates for refugees; (5) appropriate religious communities; (6) local community support; (7) receptive school environments; and (8) other related community features that contribute to a favorable quality of life for arriving refugees.

➤ Category 2: Unanticipated Arrivals Purpose and Objectives

The purpose ORR seeks to achieve through Category 2 is to provide additional resources to communities where the arrival of refugees is not anticipated and the refugee services are insufficient. Under these circumstances, resources are needed to provide additional service capacity to accommodate the additional refugees. ORR intends to offer to communities the resources to respond to the unanticipated arrivals with adequate and culturally and linguistically appropriate social services.

➤ Category 3--Services for Arriving Refugees With Special Conditions or Victims of Trafficking Purpose and Objectives

The purpose ORR seeks to fulfill through Category 3 is to provide resources that will address the needs of targeted groups of refugees or victims of trafficking. ORR believes that enhanced case management, education, culturally and linguistically appropriate linkages and coordination with other services providers contributes to the overall improved well being of refugees with special needs. Trafficking victims need similar services and initial assistance accessing the refugee and or mainstream services for which they are eligible. The services funded through Category 3 should enhance the likelihood of refugees assimilating into their new communities or trafficking victims receiving needed support as they work with the criminal justice system to assist in the investigation and prosecution of trafficking crimes.

➤ Category 4--Ethnic Community Self-Help

This program is to provide assistance to organized ethnic communities comprised of and representative of newly arrived refugee populations. ORR's intended purpose is to build bridges among newcomer refugee communities and community resources. ORR is interested in applications from a national, regional (multi-state), or local level that address community building, cultural adjustment orientation, and mutually supportive functions such as information exchange, civic participation, and resource enhancement.
